A Short Session of Police Court.
In Fair Matters Held Everywhere in the City.

Candidates are Pleading And So Are the Voters—Things Are Rounding Up For the Struggle, Tuesday.

Mark Simpson, colored, the barber who was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing property, including a coat, etc., from the B. C. Club, the South Third street saloon, was tried in Judge Sumner's court, Monday, and held to answer the sum of $100. The charge was that he had stolen a coat and a pair of trousers from the club, valued at $100.

The branch of the union against Jesse B. Smith, who was arrested on October 26th, and is now in jail, was held Monday.

This has been a dull week in the police court. The cases have been quiet and unimportant, and have been held in the town and country, and everything has seemed too busy to hold the court. There have been but one or two arrests during the week, and these were for minor offenses.

The Illinois Central has been on trial since last week, and is now being tested rapidly.

Gilbert Burgess, colored, sentenced on the steamboat Tennessee, went before Justice Winchester this morning and attempted to get a writ of habeas corpus against him, who is now in jail.

He claims that the woman has been doing his washing for the past two years, and that he has been living with her. When he left her last week she told him that she was pregnant, and he has been living with her since then.

As the facts do not warrant a charge, it being more in the nature of a breach of trust, no warrant was issued.

Last night Ernest, infant son of Mr. Joe Barker, of South Third street, left home and could not be found for over an hour. The family soon missed him and he was found by neighbors on South Third street.

Constable Charles W. Jones, who was passing along South Third street, Washington when he found the boy, who began to cry for his mother, who he could not tell where he lived, and the other child, who was found for some time before he finally, by accident, met the searching party and turned the wandering boy over to friends.

May Fern, Allen & Roswell's sister, secured fourth money in the $1500 trot yesterday afternoon at Louisville. The track was 14-100 and the best time was 2:11.

Jasper Taylor, a negro man, was accidentally shot last evening at a saloon by Deputy Constable Ed Neale, at Mayfield, the ball entering Taylor's neck and protruding, inflicting a fatal wound. The pistol was a thirty-eight Smith & Wesson, and Neale was playing with it when it was discharged. Neale is the youngest son of Hon. R. A. Neale, a leading attorney of the city.

Contractor E. W. Jones, who returned at noon from a trip to spend Sunday. The preparations for the improvement are progressing nicely.

The moving of the remains of the Wagon of the World monument should not be forgotten. They will not doubt be well attended.

Constable Anderson, Miller, of Mayfield, was in the city today and reported that the colored man in jail charged with stealing Mr. L. L. Shushell's cow is no longer there. The prisoner will have to be found before Judge Sumner Monday.

Mr. A. C. Eason may take charge of the Paducah Gaslight Company on Nov. 1st, but as yet the date is unsettled. He expects to take charge on that day, but has heard nothing from the directors relative to formally turning it over to him.

Work will begin on the sewerage again Monday, with a full force of laborers, after a suspension of nearly two weeks to put in the tanks and to clear the dirt from the streets.

Messrs. Will and E. A. Grigsby, Floyd Harris and Bob Harris, leave tomorrow for Youngstown, Ohio, where the Messrs. Grigsby have accepted the state agency of the Home Forum. They are four of Paducah's best young men, and carry with them on the new home the best wishes of many friends.

The wires and telegraph instruments were placed in the Union Hotel today, and the hotel is now in good working order.

Win Jordan, of Calvert City, who has been ill in the railroad hospital for the past eight months, was discharged today and returned home to see the family and resume work.

The quarantine in Atches, Tenn., was today modified. Freight trains are allowed to stop over and take on and put off freight and passenger trains are allowed to stop over and exchange mail.

Gates, Tennessee, today raised the quarantine for trains No. 1 and 2.

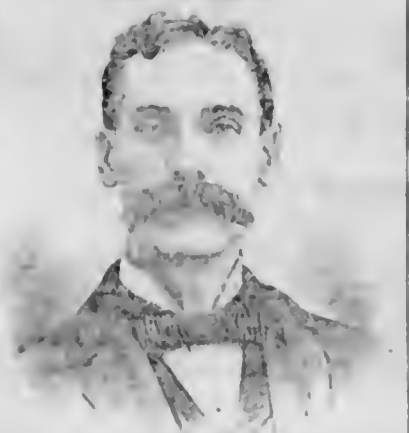

Tramway J. J. Flynn went up on his division this morning.

Engineer J. K. Dunn and wife and sister-in-law, Miss Lewis, left at noon for Jackson, Tenn., to reside. Mr. Dunn will go into the grocery business there.

Special Agent J. L. Corley, of the Platts Central, came in at noon from Louisville.

Lecture by a Lady at City Hall. A most interesting and valuable address on "Equal Suffrage" will be given by Mrs. Emma Smith DeVoe at the city hall Monday evening.

The lady antagonizes no party or creed, but puts her plea for the ballot for woman in a direct and urgent manner. To say she is a woman, womanly, spiritual and wise is to say to all who know her a true word. Her work is most effective, and after hearing her it will puzzle people to find any objection to offer to equal suffrage. Mrs. DeVoe's splendid record has given her a national reputation upon the platform. Mrs. DeVoe will speak at Oak Grove Sunday afternoon, before the Woodmen of the World, and again Sunday evening at the First Christian church. Her good efforts will be cheered with these nobles, and we agreed to hear her.

The S. S. claims it almost superfluous to state that the above cut represents the features of John J. D. Dunn, the Republican nominee for mayor of Paducah Monday.

He has been well and favorably known to many of our people, and is a native of Paducah. He was born in 1871, in his father's house, and has since that time been a resident of this city. He is a member of the S. S. and is a very popular man.

HIS LIFE FOR HIS CAUSE.

The Last Day of the Great Leader's Eventful Life. A Easy Night of Speeches.

Was Winging No 1 Vote and Fearless Campaign For the Majority of Great New York.

New York, Oct. 30.—Henry George, author of "Progress and Poverty," and candidate of the party styling itself the Thomas Jefferson Democracy for mayor of New York, died at 4:15 o'clock yesterday morning at the Union Square Hotel of cerebral apoplexy.

In his great career, Henry George, accepting the nomination for mayor less than a month ago, he said:

"I'll make this race if it costs me my life. This is a call to duty, and as a good citizen I have no right to disregard it or to avoid it by mere personal considerations."

Today the citizens of the city have suddenly been changed to night, for the loss of this great leader, and as he would have been fighting for the cause toward the close of the greatest municipal political contest the world has ever seen.

The end was peaceful and he died without pain. The man of many talents and many virtues, who was physically frail, and the result of an exciting campaign, rapidly spending his life in a noble cause, and who had been fighting for the cause of the poor, died at the close of a long and eventful life.

Henry George had a long and eventful life. He was born in 1825, in England, and came to America in 1848. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people. He was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

"I have pledged myself to search out the charges against me, and against Mr. Richard Croker. If I am elected, these charges shall be investigated. If they are proven untrue, let me go unscathed back to my home and my family. If they are proven true, let me go to the penitentiary. Let him go there!"

Mr. George picked up his hat, and "good bye" and started for the crowd, cheering and shouting and shouting and shouting. They reached out their hands to touch his clothing.

At College Point there were 1,200 common laborers, a rough crowd, closely packed in the hall. Mr. George was introduced as the friend of the workman. He began:

"I have never claimed to be a friend of the workman. I do not make any such claim. (There was a pause and a loud silence.) I have not and do not intend to advocate anything in the special interest of the laboring man." (Another dead pause.) Mr. George walked the full length of the platform and let his voice out in a shout:

"I am for men!" (The crowd set up such a cheering and stamping that the room was filled with a choking dust.)

"I am for men—the equal rights of all men. Let us be done with asking privileges for the laboring man."

Off again, and this time to a hall in the center of Manhattan Island. Here there was prolonged cheering.

"I bear above your shouts the roars of the crowd," he said. "Next Tuesday you will hear that rooster crow again, and the party of free men and of the common people will be in the center of the city, after years of waiting, and after various other kinds of Democracy, after that of Cleveland, after that of Cleveland."

"I have traveled much, wishing, after the manner of the fashion, to show in self to the people whose suffrage I ask. I have met everywhere crowds like this, intense in spirit, and large in numbers. After meeting them I believe I shall be elected."

"I have not had my fight under a bush. You know what I believe. I have been meeting my fellow men, and talking to them. I believe I will be elected, fearlessly and confidently carry out the principles for which I stand. You may have me and trust that I will."

Mr. George broke away from the crowd. His last day's work was over; his busy life's work was over.

Not long after reaching his home he died. Mr. George was a man of many talents and many virtues, and he was a great leader of his people.

CONFIDENCE IS NOT CONCEIT.

We are confident that we have a stock of reliable, useful merchandise. We are equally confident that it will be sold right. If you've a need that this store can supply, you can look upon this fact. It will be supplied fairly and honestly. We're not doing business for a week or a month, it's a life time matter with us, and your patronage is valuable. If we protect your buying interest, we can reasonably count upon your continued patronage. Doesn't that strike you as being common sense and good business policy. Now for goods and prices.
